FREE SAMPLE

The opening pages of

Before — Family Command Center + The Care Years

Read these pages exactly as they appear in the full guide.
Nothing here is rewritten or summarised — it is the product itself, so you can judge the depth before you spend a dollar.

The full guide: https://everready-family.com/product/ER-BND-BEFORE-001

EverReady Family — instant PDF download after checkout.

EVERREADY FAMILY

Family Command Center — Second Edition

The House Book: everything your family would have to hunt for, in one book you can hand them tonight.

When my mother passed, I was the executor. The family was scattered across the country, and nobody knew where anything was — the accounts, the deed, what Mom wanted. We figured it out, but it took months it did not have to take. So I built the book I wish we had had. I filled it out for my own family first. Now I am handing it to you. Set aside a weekend. Fill it in. Tell two people where it lives. That is it. — Bill Morton

Fill it in on screen, or print it and write by hand. Large print throughout — made to be read at a kitchen table, not squinted at.

By Bill Morton, EverReady Family

SAMPLE EXCERPT — full guide available at the link on the cover sheet

Read this first

This is an organiser, not a legal document and not legal, medical, tax, or financial advice. It does not replace a will, directives, or professional advice.

This book organises information and records wishes. Filling in these pages does not make a will, a power of attorney, a trust, or a medical directive. Those documents have to meet your state's rules, and states do not all agree. Have a licensed attorney in your state prepare or review your legal documents, and use this book to record where the originals live and what you want — so the people you trust are not left guessing.

Keep this book somewhere your family can actually find. Tell two people where it lives. A finished book nobody can find helps nobody.

Write no raw passwords in any EverReady book. Record where things are, who holds them, and how your trusted person gets help — never the passwords themselves.

How to use this book — done in a weekend

You do not have to finish in one sitting, and you do not have to be perfect. An 80-percent-filled book beats a perfect book that never got started. About four hours, spread over a weekend, in this order: Friday evening, key people. Saturday morning, money. Saturday afternoon, medical and legal. Sunday morning, digital life and wishes. Sunday afternoon, where everything is — then tell two people where this book lives.

Three rules that make this work. 1. This book is the map, not the vault — originals stay in the safe, the safe deposit box, or the attorney's office. 2. Pencil first, pen later — you will remember three more accounts on Sunday. 3. Tell two people — a book nobody can find is a book you never made.

SAMPLE EXCERPT — full guide available at the link on the cover sheet

Part One — Grab-and-Go (pages 1–6 of this section)

Print this part and keep it at the front. It is the part your family uses standing up, tonight, in a hospital corridor or a dark kitchen — not after reading a whole binder. Keep a copy in the car and one with your executor.

One-page emergency sheet

Full name

Date of birth

Home address

Cell phone

Emergency contact — name

Emergency contact — phone

Second contact — name

Second contact — phone

Medical snapshot for first responders

Blood type

Allergies — drugs, foods, anything serious

SAMPLE EXCERPT — full guide available at the link on the cover sheet

EVERREADY FAMILY

The Care Years

A Working Binder for Anyone Looking After Mom or Dad.

So a hospital night, a new medication, or a week when you can't be there doesn't become a scramble.

Fill it in on screen, or print it and write by hand. Large print throughout — made to be read at a kitchen table, not squinted at.

By Bill Morton, EverReady Family

SAMPLE EXCERPT — full guide available at the link on the cover sheet

Read this first

This is an organiser, not a legal document and not legal, medical, tax, or financial advice. It does not replace a will, directives, or professional advice.

This book organises information and records wishes. Filling in these pages does not make a will, a power of attorney, a trust, or a medical directive. Those documents have to meet your state's rules, and states do not all agree. Have a licensed attorney in your state prepare or review your legal documents, and use this book to record where the originals live and what you want — so the people you trust are not left guessing.

Keep this book somewhere your family can actually find. Tell two people where it lives. A finished book nobody can find helps nobody.

Write no raw passwords in any EverReady book. Record where things are, who holds them, and how your trusted person gets help — never the passwords themselves.

Who this book is for

You are looking after Mom or Dad — or a spouse, or anyone whose care has quietly become your second job. This is the working binder for those years: the providers, the medications, the visit notes, and the handoff pages, in one place, in large print, so a hospital night, a new medication, or a week when you can't be there doesn't become a scramble. This book is an organiser, not medical advice — your providers' instructions always come first.

SAMPLE EXCERPT — full guide available at the link on the cover sheet

The person you're caring for

Full name

Date of birth

Address / lives with

Cell phone

Emergency contact — name and phone

Second contact — name and phone

Preferred hospital

Health insurance — company and member number

Medicare number (last 4 is fine)

Blood type

Allergies

SAMPLE EXCERPT — full guide available at the link on the cover sheet